

As it was brought to my attention that the New XM Radio service is under attack, I strongly support XM as my family and I use its information and service's daily for business as well as pleasure and entertainment, there sources of information appears to be in time and accurate with uncomparable service. At this time I beleive that others should try to beat there service with healthy competition of a new and innovative service to compare, rather than trying to control something that has been doing very good and is continueing self-improvement of services to meet what there paying customers which to receive. I will be looking on to see what great new services are provided as well as who attempts to attack them.
